

Exhibit Directory

In the Public Library Building

John Cotton Dana Day

His Influence to-day here and abroad	First floor corridor
His Sympathy with young people shown in writings addressed to them	Children's Room First floor
His Publications; their range and number	Second floor
The World of Print; his use of the printing press to spread the habit of reading	Third floor Art Department Gallery
In Civic Affairs; his conception of the public library as a force in forming the character of the city and in promoting its growth and welfare	Third floor Art Department Gallery
His Promotion of information service for the business world	Third floor corridor
His Advancement of a museum of service and its 17 years of growth in the library building	Third floor corridor